Congratulations

Our congratulations and thanks go to all those nationalist candidates and their support teams that took part in the local elections recently. Walking the streets handing out leaflets and knocking on doors can be soul destroying. But, please don't give up, you are fighting for the most sacred of causes, our race and nation.

The Silence is Deafening

Since the beginning of the year almost 100 predominantly Asian Muslim men have been arrested on charges relating to the rape and sexual abuse of girls as young as 11 years-old. The mainstream media have largely ignored these cases but not as much as the local Muslim communities. Their lack of condemnation is disgusting and in the minds of many makes them almost accomplices.

Double Standards

A pro-Brexit demonstrator has been arrested for calling Anna Soubry MP a "Traitor" and a "Nazi". In my NF days, on many a march or demo I was called a "Nazi" by extreme left counter-demonstrators. The Police stood and watched, but no one was arrested.

In Birmingham, windows in five Mosques were deliberately broken in one night. Police said they are treating the incident as a potential "terrorist" incident. Every NF and BNP HQ has been attacked over the years and a nationalist owned print works was firebombed some years ago. But no reaction from the "anti-terrorist" police. It seems the police are only interested in defending Muslims and the parliamentary elite. This attitude only serves to undermine public support for the police and cause resentment.

General Election

Bookmakers have begun taking bets on their being a General Election within the next few months. Now is the time for nationalist party leaders to put aside their ego's and come together in an election alliance.

Rotherham Child Grooming Scandal Continues

40 Suspects Arrested in Just Two Months

The National Crime Agency has revealed that a further 40 suspects were arrested over allegations of historic child abuse and exploitation in Rotherham during March and April this year.

The arrests occurred after 13 more victims came forward alleging rape and sexual abuse between 1997 and 2015.

Some of the alleged victims were just 11 years-old when the offences took place, it is claimed!

Local police have not yet confirmed that all of the suspects are of Asian ethnicity, but local sources claim that this is the case. The recent arrests are part of "Operation Stovewood" the NCA's investigation into Rotherham sexual grooming gangs.

Apart from Rotherham, suspects have also been arrested in Leeds, Dewsbury, Sheffield and Maidstone in Kent

A spokesman from the NCA, said: "Arresting such a large number of individuals, as part of one Stovewood sub-operation, shows our desire to listen to victims and bring offenders to justice is not wavering. To date we have engaged with over 410 victims and survivors and have arrested or interviewed by appointment 94 suspects, meaning this is the largest law enforcement investigation into child sexual abuse and exploitation ever undertaken in the UK".

The NCA launched Operation Stovewood, at the invitation of South Yorkshire Police, after Professor Alexis Jay's 2014 report into the rape, grooming and trafficking of hundreds of children in Rotherham. The Jay Report described how more than 1,400 children had been affected - a figure which was later established to be an underestimate by Operation Stovewood, which has identified 1,523 victims.

Towards the end of 2018, the NCA said it had 151 designated suspects, 275 other people under investigation and 296 female survivors of exploitation actively engaging with officers. The NCA has full control of allegations between 1997 and 2013, with 250 staff and an annual budget that will soon reach £15 million a year.

Just 14 men have so far been jailed for rape and sexual abuse in Rotherham.

These Men Have Already Been Jailed For Sexually Abusing Young Girls in Rotherham.

These latest arrests in Rotherham follow the arrest of 55 suspects in the Kirklees district of West Yorkshire at the beginning of the year. These were linked to accusations of rape and sexual assault by seven women, who claim the offences took place between 2002 and 2009.

Cornish Nationalist Arrested over Radio Broadcast

Veteran Cornish nationalist and musician, Graham Hart has been arrested by Devon and Cornwall police over allegations of anti-Semitism.

Sixty-seven year old Mr Hart was arrested on suspicion of producing a racist internet radio broadcast that could incite racial hatred under the Public Order Act of 1986. He was later released without charge, but remains under investigation pending further inquiries.

According to the Campaign Against Anti-Semitism, they provided a "dossier" for the police outlining Mr Hart's broadcasts on the internet radio station, Revolution Radio, and complaints were also made to the police by Penzance Councillor Tim Dwelly who runs a Facebook page called Cornwall Anti-Semitism Watch.

No details of the offending broadcasts have been made public yet, but it seems likely there has been another attempt to link "Holocaust Denial" (which is not illegal in the UK) with outright "anti-Semitism" (which is illegal under the 2006 Racial and Religious Hatred Act).

Hundreds of Migrants Still Crossing Channel

The Home Office is still failing to stop the invasion of Britain by illegal migrants crossing the English Channel from France.

In June, a record 74 migrants arrived in one day in eight rubber dinghies. The migrant boats were stopped by vessels from the Border Force as they entered British waters and then ferried safely to Dover to claim asylum. French authorities managed to turn back two further boats whilst still in French waters. This follows the arrival of 42 migrants over one weekend in May. Again, the invaders were ferried to shore by Border Force boats.

So far this year, over 200 migrants have made the sea crossing from France in small boats. Despite promises from the Home Secretary to return them swiftly to France, less than 30 have been deported.

In 2018, over 500 migrants crossed the English Channel in small boats with less than 10% deported back to France.

Most of the migrants claim to be from Iran or Syria, and demand asylum. According to Migration Watch UK over 60% of migrants from these countries are allowed to stay. Ironically, in allowing this the British government is in breach of the "Dublin Convention" which states that would-be asylum seekers must claim asylum in the first safe country they arrive in. In these cases asylum should be claimed in France.

Tribunal Judges often accept the claims of those who say they are from minority ethnic groups, political dissidents or gay, and would be subject to torture or detention if they are returned to their Sharia-ruled homelands. Over the past five years less than 4% have been successfully deported.

Over the next few summer months hundreds of more invaders are expected.

In the words of a Dover resident to his local newspaper, "thank God the Border Force wasn't defending our shores against the Spanish armada or Napoleon's fleet or we would all be speaking Spanish or French now".

NEWS AROUND BRITAIN

Foreign Mothers Still Having Babies on the NHS

Almost 4000 pregnant non-EU citizens, many from as far away as Africa, flew into Britain last year to have their babies free of charge on the NHS. This equated to ten every day.

The cost of the births and the aftercare for mother and baby was almost £14 million last year, but the NHS managed to recover just £5 million, leaving a shortfall of £9 million to be paid from NHS funds by the British taxpayer.

Non-EU nationals must pay for hospital treatment in Britain, or have health insurance and are expected to pay upfront unless their life is in danger. But hospital authorities are not applying the rules vigorously enough, leading to hospital trusts like Barts, in East London being owed almost £1.7 million by foreign mothers. That is in just one year!

Mixed Results for Nationalists in Local Elections

With Britain's nationalist parties in terminal decline, the local elections did nothing to alleviate patriot's despondency. The BNP, once the vanguard of British nationalism, could only manage to stand two candidates nationwide. One polled 15.4% in Epping Forest, and the other finished bottom of the poll with 5.5% in Sevenoaks, Kent.

The NF stood three candidates nationally.

A spark of light was the victory of For Britain candidate Julian Leppert in Waltham Forest with an impressive 40% of the vote. For Britain also won a seat from Labour in Hartlepool. In many other seats For Britain candidates finished second and third. The party managed to stand 42 candidates, the largest of any of the nationalist groups.

The Democrats and Veterans party which broke away from UKIP, fielded 20 candidates and won two seats in Barnsley.

The British Democrats could only manage to field two candidates, with Dr Jim Lewthwaite finishing second after polling 24.5% in Bradford.

Britain First are no longer registered as a political party, and thus stood no candidates.

UKIP fielded 1,400 candidates, down on their previous campaigns and achieved mixed results. Gains were made from Labour in Sunderland, Burnley and Derby.

Following the elections, UKIP leader, Gerard Batten announced he would be standing down in June. He is yet to decide if he will stand again in any future leadership election.

Nationalists Celebrate May Day

Thousands of German patriots from several different groups held marches throughout Germany to celebrate May Day.

The public holiday, known as "Workers Day" was reincarnated by the National Socialists in 1933, to remind the people that German workers were the "Blood of the Nation".

In Plauen, Saxony, several hundred "Third Way" supporters marched through the town with a mass showing of the group's flag, and accompanied by a large drum corps. Most of the marchers wore identical tee-shirts bearing the party logo, prompting complaints from opponents that it was "a political uniform".

"Third Way" March in Saxony

The Central Council of German Jews complained that the authorities should have banned the march from taking place.

Local police confirmed that nine counter-protesters were arrested for illegally covering their faces but no nationalists were arrested.

In Duisburg, hundreds of supporters of the nationalist, De Rechte party used their May Day parade to campaign for the release of 90 year-old grandmother, Ursula Haverbeck, who is serving a two-year jail sentence after questioning certain aspects of the "Holocaust".

"Die Rechte" Demand Release of Ursula

One of Germany's oldest patriotic parties, the NPD has lost its court battle to force a national public broadcaster to show one of its EU election campaign adverts. The broadcaster, ZDF refused to show the anti-immigration advert, branding it as "racial hatred". Judges at the Federal Constitutional Court ruled that the free-speech rights of the NPD had not been violated.

The Banned Campaign Advertisement

Once the most powerful nationalist group in post-war Germany, the NPD has seen much of its national support drained off to the populist Alternative for Germany party (AfD) although the NPD still enjoys significant local support in many councils in the East of the country.

Look back at History

When British Fascists Triumphed at the Polls

By Roger Bartlett

The recent local and European Elections saw our traditional nationalist parties perform badly. In the local elections the newly formed For Britain party, led by former UKIP stalwart Anne Marie Walters, did manage to gain two council seats while the NF and BNP could only manage to field 5 candidates between them. But this wasn't always the case.

It is often erroneously claimed by their Marxist and Zionist extremist opponents that British Fascists and National Socialists were never successful at the ballot box during the last century. In fact, the converse is true as they won several elections. Arnold Spencer Leese and his comrade Henry Simpson were the two first constitutionally elected British Fascists elected to Stamford Council during 1924. Leese eventually left Miss Rotha Lintorn-Ormon's British Fascists (BF) dismissing them as merely "conservatism with knobs on" and he founded his own organisation the Imperial Fascist League (IFL) which advocated a "Racial Fascist Corporate State" and Money Reform.

First Fascist Elected Councillor. Arnold Leese

Sir Oswald Mosley invited Leese and Henry Hamilton Beamish to speak at a meeting of his New Party NUPA Youth Movement (Greyshirts) on the 27th April 1932 on the subject of "The Blindness of British Politics under the Jew Money-Power" and Mosley was the chairman of the meeting. Despite the later rivalry of Mosley's British Union of Fascists (BUF) and Leese's IFL, some British Fascists held dual membership of both the BUF and IFL, and the BUF's Blackshirt Bookshop in Canterbury sold IFL pamphlets from 1939 until the outbreak of the disastrous European Brothers' Civil War, which Mosley and Leese opposed and who were both interned without charge or trial under Regulation 18B by the British Government warmongers as a result along with thousands of their followers and other "Peace with Germany" activists.

In January 1934, the "Daily Mail" supported Mosley's BUF and membership rose to 50,000 throughout Britain.

Daily Mail Supports Mosley

The Editor, Viscount Rothermere had pointed out to Communist critics who accused the new iron creed of Fascism being a "foreign import" that if our British ancestors had been equally stupid we would have had no law and no football as these were also invented by Italians, and that Fascism is a nationalist creed in every country of the world just as the British Navy is distinct from the Italian Navy, and furthermore that the Communists' hero Karl Marx was a German Jew. Viscount Rothermere abandoned his brief backing for the BUF due to pressure from Jewish advertisers who threatened to boycott his newspaper (although he continued to support Hitler and Mussolini until the start of the War).

Look back at History

In 1936, Mosley expanded the title of his party to the British Union of Fascists and National Socialists (BUFNS) but his Movement was more commonly known as British Union (BU) for short.

Mosley's British Union won several local elections. Charles Bentinck Budd was elected in 1934 in Worthing, and always wore his full BU "Action Press" uniform to council meetings, leading the British daily newspapers to describe the pleasant and happy seaside Sussex town as the "Munich of the South" due to his electoral victory and the high local membership (150+ card carrying members; men and women, young and old) of the party.

Mosley and Charles Bentinck-Budd

Another BU member Sydney Crosland was elected in Littlehampton, Sussex and his father Rev. James Crosland was also a BU member and Church of England clergyman the Vicar of Rustington. Ronald Creasy was elected as a BU councillor in Eye, Suffolk in 1938 and I had the pleasure of hearing him speak at a Friends of Oswald Mosley (FOM) dinner during the 1990s in central London, together with Mosley's beautiful and elegant second wife Lady Diana Mitford, who I corresponded with when she retired to France.

BUF Election Campaigning

Although British Union never won a parliamentary seat during its brief eight years of existence, two former BU members; Major Sir Jocelyn Morton Lucas and

Harold Soref were later elected as Conservative MP's to represent Portsmouth South and Ormskirk, Lancashire in 1939 and 1970 respectively. Prior to his election, Major Lucas had been the Portsmouth District Officer of the BU and both he and Soref retained their strident anti-Marxist views, with Soref later becoming a leading light in the influential anti-immigration Monday Club which was led by Mosley's stepson Jonathan Guinness during the 1970s.

In 1948, Mosley formed a new party called Union Movement (UM) which advanced a radical new policy of "European Socialism", "European Workers' Syndicalism" and "Britain First in Europe a Nation" - a new European Union for the white European Peoples independent of Global Capitalism, Usury and International Marxism.

Mosley Introduces Union Movement to East London

During the early 1950s, UM member F.B. Price-Heywood was elected as a local councillor in Grasmere, Cumbria and Mosley personally congratulated him on his successful election campaign in the pages of the weekly UM newspaper "UNION". Mosley's Union Movement continued to use the slogan "Britain for the British" (first used during the BU glory days) and in 1952 Mosley campaigned for an end to non-European immigration and the financially-assisted repatriation of African and Asian immigrants to good jobs and homes in their own lands.

What a contrast to UKIP and the Brexit Party who prefer non-white "Commonwealth" immigration to white Eastern European immigration! (The Communist Party of Great Britain-Marxist Leninist CPGB-ML endorse the multi-racialist Brexit Party led by the former City stockbroker Nigel Farage!).

Thankfully, FOM and the League of St George (LSG) still promote Mosley's great ideas in the 21st century to a new audience of British Youth.

OVERSEAS NEWS

Winners and Losers in the EU Elections

The EU elections probably created as many surprises for the losers as it did for the winners among Europe's patriotic nationalist and populist parties.

Certainly it was a surprise in the Netherlands where the Dutch Freedom Party led by Geert Wilders saw their vote crash from 13.2% down to 3.5% losing all four of their MEPs.

Another unwanted surprise occurred in Greece, when the openly national socialist party, Golden Dawn saw its vote almost halve from 9.4% to 4.8% causing the loss of one of its three MEPs.

Also badly beaten was the Danish People's Party who lost three of their four MEPs after seeing their vote drop from 26.6% to 10.7%.

In Germany, the veteran Nationalist party the NPD lost their only MEP, Udo Voigt, after seeing patriotic Germans switch their support to the more populist Alternative for Germany (AfD) party.

AfD Polled Over 4 Million Votes Increasing Their MEPs from Seven to Eleven.

In a cheeky snub to the German establishment, the hard-line nationalist Die Rechte party fielded 90-year old Ursula Haverbeck as one of their candidates despite her presently serving a prison sentence for "holocaust denial".

She attracted 25,000 votes!

British UKIP voters seemed to have switched their support to the new populist Brexit Party complexly wiping out the UKIP gains made in 2014. But not only did UKIP fall, all of the established parties failed to match the Brexit Party vote.

Amongst the biggest winners was the Fidesz party of Hungary polling a massive 52%. Party leader and Hungarian Prime Minister Viktor Orban has infuriated the EU by flatly refusing to take in any of the migrants that continue to flood into Europe.

Another big winner was the anti-immigration Lega party in Italy, topping the polls with 34% (29 seats). A massive increase from the 6% (5 seats) achieved in 2014.

European Elections

In France, the patriotic National Rally party (previously the Front National), led by the charismatic Marine Le Pen overtook the ruling Marche party of President Macron with a poll-topping 23.3%.

Marine Le Pen Topped the Poll in France

In Belgium, the Flemish nationalists, Vlaams Belang increased their MEPs from one to three. They were also successful in the Belgian parliamentary elections, increasing their seats from 3 to 18.

Vlaams Belang: A New Surge of Popularity in Flanders

In Spain, for the first time in over 40 years, nationalists have been elected to the Spanish Parliament in Madrid.

The Euro-sceptic and anti-immigration party VOX won 24 seats in the Spanish parliament after polling almost 11% of the national vote. In parts of Andalusia most affected by African immigration the party polled up to 24% of the vote.

In the European Elections VOX polled 6.2% winning them three MEPs. This is the first time the party will be represented in Brussels.

Nationalists and Euro-sceptic parties also did well in Poland and Slovakia, where in the latter, the National-Socialist, People's Party increased their vote from 1.8% to 12.1% gaining two MEPs.

Denmark

Danes Swing to Left in General Election

The Danish parliamentary elections saw the voters swing from the "Blue Bloc", dominated by the Centre-Right Venstre party to the "Red Bloc" led by the Social Democrats.

The "Red Bloc" grouping captured 93 of the 179 parliamentary seats available, with the "Blue Bloc" winning just 76 seats.

The Social Democrats finished top of the poll with 26%, closely followed by the Conservative Venstre party on 23.4%. The Nationalist, Danish People's Party finished third after seeing their support plummet from 21% to 8.7%.

Despite the swing to the left, immigration is still a very sore point with the Danes. The newly formed Hard Line party publicly burned copies of the Quran and advocated the deportation of ALL Muslims from Denmark. The party gained 2% of the vote!

The incoming Socialist Prime Minister, Mette Frederiksen has promised not to liberalise the strict anti-immigration policies brought in by the previous government.

Holocaust News

Holocaust Memorial to Be Built in Royal Park

Proposals to build a Holocaust memorial and a national Holocaust Education Centre in a small park adjacent to the Houses of Parliament have been given the support of government and four former Prime Ministers.

In a letter to Westminster Council, who is considering the planning application, Prime Minister Theresa May said by building the Holocaust centre in the centre of London, "we make a solemn and eternal promise that Britain will never forget what happened in the Holocaust. Seeing this through is a sacred national mission". The letter was also signed by four former Prime Ministers, David Cameron Tony Blair, Gordon Brown and John Major.

The planning application is being opposed by The Royal Parks charity which manages the park, Victoria Tower Gardens. The gardens are a grade 2 registered park overlooking the River Thames and have been described as "a highly sensitive location in planning and heritage terms".

The Holocaust memorial's design features 23 large bronze fin structures that are spread out to allow visitors to walk between them, leading to the underground educational centre. The construction, if approved would mean closing the gardens to the public for up to three years while building takes place. The Royal Parks charity has been quick to announce that it "strongly support the principle of a Holocaust memorial in London, but not in its proposed location"

Local residents have formed the "Save Victoria Tower Gardens Campaign" and warns that the memorial and learning centre would "fundamentally change the historic character and associated views in and out of the park". The website "Change.org" has organised an online petition against the building plans and to date 10,000 people have signed the petition.

The project to build the memorial is being led by the UK Holocaust Memorial Foundation and a national fundraising campaign was launched in 2015. Despite this, the government has had to announce it will contribute £75 million of tax-payers money to the memorial fund at a time when tens of thousands of Britons have to rely on charity-run "food banks" to feed their starving families!

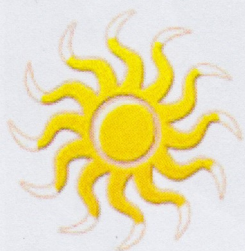

Victoria Tower Gardens

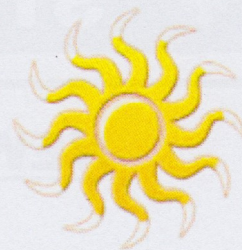

Holocaust Memorial Gardens in Hyde Park

London already has a Holocaust memorial in its iconic Hyde Park. The memorial features a series of large boulders inscribed in both English and Hebrew.

The memorial was built in 1983 and funded, not by the British taxpayer, but by the Board of Deputies of British Jews.

Summer Solstice

A sacred day in the Pagan calendar of our North European ancestors

The Summer Solstice, or midsummer's day, is the longest day of the year, when the time between sunrise and sunset is at its maximum. After the Summer Solstice daylight time gradually reduces as winter creeps in. To our North European ancestor, this was a time of celebration, for long daylight hours meant longer time in the fields and forests, hunting and growing crops for winter. Depending on the shift in the calendar, the Summer Solstice occurs between June 20th and June 22nd. This year it is June 21st.

While it was still dark, our ancestors made their way to sacred sites, and gathered inside a ring of stones, ritually placed on directions from the wise men of the tribe. Once set, the stones would remain often for centuries. Many of these stone circles remain today, the best preserved being Stonehenge in Wiltshire.

As the first rays of the sun appeared through the sacred circle, a great cheer would rise from the crowd, and the wise ones or priests, would light a sacred bonfire.

The Sun appears above the sacred circle

The day would be spent feasting and dancing, with young men testing their courage in jumping through the flames from the bonfire and walking across hot ashes. The bonfire was a vital part of the celebration as it was believed to keep evil spirits away. For this was a really spiritual event, when "magic" herbs such as Calendula and St John's Wort, both with powerful healing powers, could be safely gathered by the wise women of the tribe, for the making of potions to heal the sick. Prayers were said, asking the Gods for a successful harvest and a mild winter. Good health for the family and good luck and prosperity for the tribe were also asked.

As with many Pagan festivals, the Christian church adopted the Summer Solstice as "St John's Day", the alleged birthday of Saint John the Baptist. But this was not widely accepted, and priests often complained that on midsummer's day "those who claim to be Christians prefer to spend the day celebrating at the bonfire rather than going to church".

Today, the solstice is still widely celebrated in Northern Europe. In Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania, midsummer's day is a public holiday. In Sweden and Finland a public holiday is on a fixed date, June 24th.

People flock to the countryside, light bonfires, hold feasts and perform traditional dances until sunset.

Maidens perform traditional dances

For Britons it is more awkward to celebrate the solstice. As it is not a public holiday, most people have to spend their day at work. But it is still possible to rise early to watch the arrival of the midsummer sun. In the evening, a candle can substitute for the sacred bonfire and a walk outside to watch the setting sun is not beyond most folk. Remember to offer prayers for your family and kith and kin, and give thanks to the Gods for their gifts. In this multi-cultural society it is vital that you do not abandon your individual spiritual heritage.

Blessed Be!

The author is a member of an Essex-based Pagan group, and has studied and practiced various forms of Paganism for over 30 years.
